UCAS - Thinking About University?

The UCAS logo, consisting of the letters 'UCAS' in a large, bold, black, sans-serif font.

If you are considering going to University, a good starting point is to visit the UCAS website. UCAS manages more than two million applications for full-time undergraduate courses every year and they also help students to find the right course. They provide innovative online tools which make it easier for students and Higher Education Institutes (HEIs) to manage and track applications and offers.

They list all the information you might need from choosing a course to completing the application process. It also has guidance for personal statements and information about what to do if you don't get your grades.
